

Kaye Trainer International Capital Campaign

UCT kicked off The Kaye Trainer International Capital Campaign at our annual convention in July 2014 – and the response has been overwhelming! The campaign is designed to supply every special hockey program with a Kaye Trainer, which includes suspension and harness. In total, each device costs $2,500, including shipping. We encourage your local and/or regional councils to get involved by donating either the full $2,500, or whatever your council can contribute to the total campaign. Every donation helps! This is an ongoing campaign until we reach our total campaign goal of $182,500, or 73 Kaye Trainers.

"The device is THE safest way to teach someone how to skate!"

– Dave Chase

The Kaye Trainer is a physical therapy device used in rehabilitation centers worldwide and manufactured by Kaye Products. Originally designed for recovery from traumatic leg/hip injuries or illnesses, special hockey programs have discovered an alternative use for the device. According to Dave Chase of the Valencia SNAP Flyers special hockey program, "The device is THE safest way to teach someone how to skate!"

If your local or regional council donates the full $2,500 to the campaign, you get to choose which special hockey program will receive the Kaye Trainer through your donation. In addition, UCT will help your council create buzz in your community and generate media attention for the arrival celebration of the Kaye Trainer at your designated special hockey team's rink. Let's celebrate this event within your community!

You can donate online at www.uct.org through PayPal, or checks can be made payable to UCT Charities and mailed to the UCT home office at: UCT, Attn. Jen Chillinsky, 1801 Watermark Drive, Suite 100, Columbus, OH 43215. Each time a donation is made, the amount and the donor is made visible on the UCT home page. You can follow the campaign's progress by visiting www.uct.org.
